DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claim 19 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lupien et al. (US Patent No. 5,101,353).

As per claim 19, Lupien et al teaches a futures contract trading and clearing apparatus comprising:

an input device for receiving user input information, the user input information including a base tick value and a trade price (figures 1-6; column 6, lines 33-45);

a database for storing the user input information (column 9, lines 48-54);

a processor including programmable circuitry for calculating a settlement amount based on the user input information (column 12, lines 20-42 and column 7, lines 5-14);

Lupien et al does not explicitly teach having a trigger for computer-assisted transfer of funds based on the settlement amount. Lupien et al teaches electronically making all transactions available to clients' custodian banks. Note column 4, lines 32-41. As per these features, electronic funds transfer were well known and practiced in the art at the time of the invention.

Art Unit: 3628

Performing transfer of funds based on the settlement amount would have been obvious to the skilled artisan in order to assure instant payment to related parties involved in the transactions; and an output for outputting at least one of the user input information and the settlement amount (column 12, lines 20-42).

The prior art taken alone or in combination failed to teach or suggest “specifying an amount of money a clearing entity must transfer between the buyer and the seller for clearing the convex features contract by applying the actual tick value to a difference between the trade price data and the settlement price” as recited in independent claims 1 and 16.

The prior art taken alone or in combination failed to teach or suggest features recited in claim 20.

3. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.

Art Unit: 3628

4. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).
